President’s Message
by Diana Rich

Back to school already!
How time flies. I hope summer for you and yours has been filled with fun, friends and new memories to cherish.

Luckily, summer fun for OCRIMS isn’t over yet. We’re still basking in the success of the 23rd Annual Golf Classic—“Space: The Final Fairway …” -- with over 40 space cadets attending the morning Star Fleet Academy. And we are looking forward to two terrific opportunities to support our communities. Volunteer for booth duty at the Orange International Street Fair on Saturday, August 31, or Sunday, September 1, and contribute to the multi-cultural ambience. Carry on with the fun at Casino Night on Thursday, September 5, at Bourbon Street in Fullerton, where you can network with industry professionals from OCRIMS and Orange Empire CPCU. Proceeds benefit local charities. See the newsletter for details on both.

Live long and prosper, Diana Rich

Sponsored by LexisNexis®

Aug. 22 for one hour at 10:00 a.m. Pacific Time – free for RIMS members, $50 for nonmembers

As a risk management professional, you know how important it is to manage the risks your organization faces, but what about the risks faced by the third parties that you depend on? Can they impact you? The answer is YES!

Actions taken by entities and individuals among your third-party network place your company at risk every day. The question is, “How do you manage your company’s risk and proactively monitor for potential damages from your business partners?”

Spend an hour with LexisNexis® risk management experts to learn why and how you can accomplish enhanced third-party risk management through innovative due diligence and monitoring technologies.

Key Take-Aways:

- How can third-party risk damage your reputation and lead to significant financial penalties?
- Why is third-party monitoring more important now (I’ve never had to do it before)?
- What’s the ROI and the impact risk management technology can make for me?

This year’s joint meeting of OCRIMS and Orange Empire CPCU featured a topic that is becoming more commonplace in today’s risk climate: crisis management as part of business continuity management. We’d like to thank one of OCRIMS’ Executive Sponsors, Aon, for putting together this presentation for our joint audience. Speaker Tony Adame, in his role at Aon, is responsible for providing Business Continuity Management—emergency response, crisis management and communications, IT disaster recovery and business continuity—services for clients across various industries.

As part of his role, Tony assists clients in identifying, assessing and mitigating business risk and impacts. He shared insights of his experience in advising clients on crisis management and crisis communications training. He started by defining what is considered a crisis. This would include a situation that can attract public and government attention, as well as interrupt normal company operations. Tony wanted the audience to understand what steps were most important in crisis management, with communication being the most critical.

Continuing his presentation, Tony provided examples of a crisis management plan and showed steps on how to create a crisis management plan, which would include an activation tree that would identify key company personnel responsible for implementing and activating a crisis management plan and response. Each crisis-management-plan team member’s role was defined as well. Tony encouraged meeting attendees to have a crisis management plan in place and to practice it at least annually so that all those responsible for activating the plan know and understand their roles in the event of a crisis. He said that these members’ roles would be vital in coordinating a response and in recovery efforts.

Tony concluded his presentation by emphasizing the importance of communication after a crisis has occurred. He stated that the ability to communicate effectively with key stakeholders after a major disruption could play a critical role in overall resiliency. This would include notifications to internal team members needed for a communicative response, determining and developing an appropriate message, as well as managing the communications response.

On behalf of OCRIMS and Orange Empire CPCU, I would like to thank Tony and Aon for bringing this valuable topic to our audience and presenting it in such a way to make it applicable across all industries.

The Southern California Joint Technical Symposium (JTS) was formed in the 1980s when two sections (Orange County and Southern California) of the American Industrial Hygiene Association (AIHA) held a joint meeting. Over the years, the JTS has featured a powerhouse of eminent environmental health and hygiene professionals willing to share their expertise with colleagues by providing short technical presentations. In 2005, the Orange County Chapter of the American Society of Safety Professionals (ASSP) joined the AIHA sections, and brought a new class of professional to the JTS: The Safety Pro. The JTS has grown organically and impressively to become the premier EHS Symposium of Southern California.

OCRIMS has been offered a discount for anyone wanting to attend the JTS on October 16.

The draft program showcasing two keynote sessions and four technical breakout tracks with over 18 esteemed speakers is posted to the JTS website (http://www.caljts.com). Sessions will feature presentations covering the topics of industrial hygiene, safety, environmental management, and others. Use the following link to see the full agenda: http://www.caljts.com/wp-content/uploads/2019/05/2019JTSProgramDraft.pdf

Complementing the topical presentations will be an exposition featuring leading companies offering EHS products and services.

Over the past two decades, the concept and practice of risk management has grown and matured significantly. However, various organizations, speakers and authors have offered different and sometimes conflicting interpretations of cornerstones of the risk management practice. With so much depending on internal controls, ERM and strategic risk management, professionals and executives could use some clarity on the value of risk management.

Learn strategies to effectively deliver maximum stakeholder value enterprise-wide during the session, From Risk Management to Value Management at the RIMS ERM Conference 2019 from November 4 – 5 in New Orleans.

Featured speaker Dr. Douglas Webster has served as the CFO of both the US Department of Labor and the US Department of Education. His federal career experience also includes serving as the Deputy Director of the Department of Defense's Business Transformation Agency, and Director of Risk Management at the US Agency for International Development (USAID).

The winner of the RIMS Global ERM Award of Distinction will be recognized at the RIMS ERM Conference

RIMS will honor leading ERM programs that demonstrate innovative approaches and techniques to managing uncertainty effectively with the aim of creating, preserving or realizing organizational value. Be recognized for ERM excellence and join a global community of experts by sharing your organization’s approach for managing today’s risk and opportunity landscape with your peers.

Nominations MUST be submitted by August 23.

Please complete the submission form, save to PDF format and email the submission to: ERMAward@RIMS.org.

Post-Conference: RIMS-CRMP Prep Workshop

Anyone interested in obtaining the RIMS-CRMP certification is invited to attend a post-conference workshop with Dr. Joseph Milan from November 6 – 7. This course will review the background and benefits of the certification as well as the core competencies of a risk professional. Reduced rates are available for members. Poker is one of the most popular card games throughout the world. In fact, for many people, it’s much more than just a card game; it’s a passion. The popularity of poker continues to grow with the ability to play on a smartphone and through online gaming sites. Here are some facts about poker.

- Approximately 80 million Americans play poker.
- At peak times, more than one million people are playing poker for real or play money at the various card rooms around the world.
- Gamblers win most of their poker money from putting their opponents in a position to make big mistakes and not from their own brilliant play.
- There are 2,598,960 possible poker hands with 52 cards.
- The four suits—Hearts, Diamonds, Spades and Clubs—originated in France in 1480. Spades represent nobility, Diamonds represent merchants, Clubs represent peasants, and Hearts the clergy.
- High-quality plastic cards last much longer than the paper ones, and the casinos normally change decks after 15 minutes of steady play.
- Each king in a deck of playing cards represents a great king from history: Spades - King David, Hearts – Charlemagne, Clubs – Alexander the Great, Diamonds - Julius Caesar.
- There are two “one-eyed” Jacks in a deck of cards: Jack of spades and Jack of hearts.
- 70 million decks of cards are sold in America each year.
- The Big 3 poker games are Texas Holdem, Omaha and Stud Poker versions. Holdem and Omaha are current favorites; however, 7-Card Stud Poker has a long history and will never go out of style.
- The odds of a Royal Flush are 649,740 to 1.
- There is one chance in 500 of drawing a flush when playing poker.
- H.O.R.S.E. is a form of poker usually played at the high stakes tables. It consists of rounds of play changing among Texas Holdem, Omaha, Razz, Seven Card Stud and Seven Card Stud Eight or Better.
- Richard Nixon was an avid poker player, and Barack Obama plays the game and is reputed to be an excellent bluffer.
